GOOD PROGRESS IN HURSE CASE

Number of Witnesses Called in Superior Court in Suit Over Knoll Reward-Will Occupy Rest of Week.

The case of Thomas Howe of New London vs. George C. Raymond and 15 others, which has been on the focket It years and which has twice been tried, was started Tuesday in the superior court at New London by Judge Joel H. Reed and jury.

The suit is one which involves many persons and several questions and is withal an unusual case. Mr. Howe sues for 2.500, which he claims is due him for the stallion Knoll Reward, and he claims Mr. Raymond and his fifteen co-defendants are liable to him for Thearl, J. T. Conningham, James A. Miller, F. B. Durley, Affred Hunt, E. T. Burke, R. C. Kelley & Co., Ira F. L. Wany of these were in court Tuesday. Mr. Raymond was not presented. Attorneys Itali, McGuire & Hull appeared for Mr. Howe. Attorney Donald G. Perkins, Mayor Charles F. Thayer and Attorney Fanning of Norwich represented the defendants.

The case is the first of the jury sesco-defendants are liable to him for

Mr. Howe claims that the sale was made through H. B. Reynolds of Franklinville, N. Y., who was engaged in horse selling all over the country. The stallion Knoll Reward was brought over from Ireland. It is the cialm that Mr. Reynolds and the other men, all interested in horseflesh, bought Knoil Reward for breeding purposes and agreed to pay $2,860 in 28 shares of $100 each. It is further claimed that these men, who were known collectively as the Cleveland law Horse company were either to hay Horse company, were either to pay cash or to sign a joint note, pay-able in one two or three years.

Some paid cash and others signed the joint note. The note was made out payable to Reynolds or bearer. Some of the men had two shares and others but one, no one holding more claimed by the defense that no company was formed as agreed and that in signing the note it was believed that simply an agreement to form a company was being signed. Fault was also found with Knoll Reward, he being claimed not satisfactory for

SUIT FOR EJECTMENT. Heard By Judge Burnham in Common Pleas Court.

A suit for electment was heard at New London Tuesday in the court of common pleas. The plaintiff was David L. Murray and the defendant FORGED SIGNATURES ON C. M. Shav. The case was heard by Burnham of the Griswold town court.

Murray is a minor. In 1901, when he was ten years old, his grandfather purchased a strip of land in Groton, from N. S. Galiup and requested Mr. Galiup to make out the deed to this hoy. Soon after the boy's father, who was also named David, died. was also named David, died.

Then the town of Groton, which had furnished supplies to the father, wanted to collect against the father's estate. The deed did not specify David Murray Jr., and the town claimed that it belonged to the father. The probate court ordered the plot of land sold and C. W. Shay hought it. sold and C. M. There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dult faded or streaked appearance they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair, with wonderfully beneficial effect.

Nowadays we don't have to resort to old-time, thresome methods of gathering the herbs and making the tea. This is done by skillful chemists better than we applied it outside the property of the building. The remains were charred and unrecognizable.

At Randolph, one of the most amusing incidents of the day happened. The president chatted informally with the crowd about his car. He referred to the fact that he was in a farming community and suggested that the rain would be good for fall pastures. The crowd voiced assent, and further said that the crops had been fine.

"You see," the president said in explanation of the various questions he had asked, "I am something of a farmer myself."

"Are the potatoes all in?" a voice asked amid laughter.

"I am gathering them slowly," the president replied, as the irain roiled away.
